

ASSESSMENT SITES AND RESOURCES LIST

Please find below the list of assessment sites and resources. If a student wants to be tested for learning disability or dyslexia, the student should request a psycho-educational evaluation. If a student is interested in testing for ADHD, the student should ask for a psycho-behavioral evaluation that focuses on attention, but the student needs to specifically ask that he/she be assessed against the adult norms. If a student requires an assessment for depression, anxiety, or any other mental health disorder, the student should request a psychological evaluation for that specific area or a comprehensive assessment that covers multiple areas.

Please note that the cost of the evaluation, test, or assessment is the responsibility of the student. The availability and price of each will be determined by each site. If you have any questions, please contact your respective Disability Services Coordinator.
